

Search of Truth, Series-21

Who is Muhammad?

(Peace Be Upon Him)

You should know this man!

JAMAAT-E-ISLAMI HIND

Dawat Nagar, Abul Fazl Enclave, New Delhi-25

☎ 9810032508, ☎ 9650022638

🌐 www.islamsabkeliye.com

📺 www.youtube.com/truepathoflife

In the name of God, the most Merciful, the most Beneficent

Who is Muhammad?

(Peace Be Upon Him)

You should know this man!

Muslims believe that the Muhammad (pbuh) is the final Prophet in a long chain of Prophets sent to call the people to the obedience and worship of God alone

Indeed in the Messenger of Allah you have an excellent example to follow for whoever hopes in Allah and the Last Day and remembers Allah much.

Qur'an 33:21

(‘Allah’ in Arabic). Some of these Prophets include Adam, Noah, Abraham, Ishmael, Isaac, Jacob, Joseph, Moses, David, Solomon and Jesus (peace be upon them all).

Just as Moses (pbuh) was sent with the Torah (the original, uncorrupted revelation sent to Moses) and Jesus (pbuh) with the Gospel (the original, uncorrupted revelation not the present-day versions), Muslims believe that Muhammad (pbuh) was sent with the Qur'an to demonstrate how its teachings should be applied.

The Prophet's (pbuh) wife, Aisha (MAPH) was once asked to describe the Prophet (pbuh), and she replied that he was ‘the walking Qur'an’, meaning he meticulously implemented the noble teachings of the Qur'an in his daily life. We will demonstrate how he translated these noble teachings into noble actions.

Mission of Mercy

As well as calling people to pray, fast and give charity, the Prophet (pbuh) taught that one's faith in God should also affect one's treatment of others. He said,

“The best of you are they who have the best character.”

And We (God) have not sent you (Muhammad) except as a mercy for mankind.

Qur'an 21:107

*(May Allah be Pleased with him/her)

Many sayings of the Prophet (pbuh) emphasise the relationship between belief and action, for example, "Whoever believes in Allah and the Last Day, should not hurt his neighbour, and whoever believes in Allah and the Last Day, should serve his guest generously, and whoever believes in Allah and the Last Day, should speak what is good or keep quiet."

The final Messenger (pbuh) taught humans to show mercy and to respect each other, "He who does not show mercy to others, will not be shown mercy."

In another narration, some people requested the Prophet (pbuh) to invoke God to punish the disbelievers but he replied, "I have not been sent as one to curse but as a mercy."

Forgiveness

The Prophet (pbuh) was the most forgiving of all people and the kindest. If someone abused him, he would forgive him, and the harsher a person was, the more patient he would become. He was extremely lenient and forgiving, especially when he had the upper hand and the power to retaliate.

Let them forgive and overlook: do you not wish that Allah should forgive you? For Allah is Oft-Forgiving, Most Merciful."

Qur'an 24:22

Prophet Muhammad (pbuh) was all for forgiveness and no amount of crime or aggression against him was too great to be forgiven by him. He was the best example of forgiveness and kindness, as mentioned in the following verse of the Qur'an, "Keep to forgiveness (O Muhammad), and enjoin kindness, and turn away from the ignorant."

Qur'an 7:199

Equality

In the following sayings of the Prophet (pbuh), he taught that all humans are equal in the sight of God,

"All humanity is from Adam and Adam is from clay. There is no superiority for an Arab over a non-Arab, nor for a black over a white; except through piety."

"God does not judge you according to your wealth, but He looks at your hearts and looks into your deeds."

Indeed the most honoured of you in the sight of Allah is the most righteous of you.

Quran, 49:13

It is related that once a companion of the Prophet (pbuh) called another companion in an offensive way, "Son of a black woman!" The Prophet (pbuh) became angry and replied, "Do you condemn him because of the blackness of his mother? You still have within you traces of ignorance from the pre-Islamic period."

Tolerance

"You should not do evil to those who do evil to you, but you should deal with them with forgiveness and kindness." This is how the final Messenger of God (pbuh) reacted to personal attacks and abuse.

Islamic sources include a number of instances where the Prophet (pbuh) had the opportunity to take revenge upon those who wronged him, but refrained from doing so.

He taught man to exercise patience in the face of adversity: "The strong is not the one who overcomes people by his strength, but the strong is the one who controls himself while in anger."

Practising patience and tolerance does not mean that a Muslim should be a passivist and not defend himself in case of attack. Prophet Muhammad (pbuh) stated, "Do not wish to meet the enemy, but when you meet (face) the enemy, be patient (i.e. stand firm when facing the enemy)."

Good deeds and evil deeds are not equal. Repel evil with what is best, then he with whom you had enmity shall become as a loyal friend.

Quran, 41:34

Gentleness

A companion who served Prophet Muhammad (pbuh) for ten years said that Prophet Muhammad (pbuh) was always gentle in his dealings with him. "When I did something, he never questioned my manner of doing it; and when I did not do something, he never questioned my failure to do it. He was the friendliest of all men."

By the grace of Allah, you are gentle towards the people; if you had been harsh and hard-hearted, they would have dispersed from around you.

Quran, 3:159

On one occasion, the wife of the Prophet (pbuh) reacted angrily after being insulted by a person. The Prophet (pbuh) advised her, “Be gentle and calm, O Aisha, as Allah likes gentleness in all affairs.”

He also said, “Show gentleness! For if gentleness is found in something, it beautifies it, and when it is taken out from anything, it makes it deficient.”

Humbleness

The Prophet (pbuh) used to prevent people from standing up for him out of respect. He used to sit wherever there was a place available in an assembly and never sought a prominent or elevated place. He never wore anything to distinguish himself from his companions or appear in higher rank than them. He used to mix with the poor and the needy; he used to sit with the elderly and support the widows. People who did not know him could not tell him apart from the rest of the crowd.

Addressing his companions, he said, “Allah has revealed to me, that you must be humble, No one should boast over one another, and no one should oppress another.”

Such was his humbleness that he was fearful of being worshipped, a privilege only befitting God:

“Do not exceed bounds in praising me as the Christians do in praising Jesus, Son of Mary. I am only the Lord’s servant; then call me the Servant of Allah and His Messenger.”

And the servants of the Most Gracious (God) are those who walk on the earth in humbleness, and when the ignorant address them, they say: 'Peace.'

Qur'an 25:63

The ideal Husband

The Prophet’s beloved wife, Aisha (MAPH), said of her noble husband, “He always helped with the housework and would at times mend his clothes, repair his shoes and sweep the floor. He would milk, protect and feed his animals and do household chores.”

Not only was he a devoted husband, he also encouraged his companions to follow his example,

And live with them (your spouses) in kindness.

Qur'an 4:19

“The most perfect of the believers in faith are the best of them in morals. And the best among them are those who are best to their wives.”

The ideal Example

What has preceded is only a glimpse of how Muhammad (pbuh) lived his life. The examples of kindness and mercy mentioned may come as a surprise to some people given the portrayal of Islam in the media and its constant misrepresentation.

It is important when trying to understand Islam that one goes directly to its sources: The Qur'an, and the sayings and actions of Prophet Muhammad (pbuh), and that anyone does not judge Islam based on the errant actions of a few Muslims.

Indeed you (O Muhammad) are on an exalted standard of character.

Qur'an 68:4

Comments from non-muslims

Mahatma K. Gandhi, a major political and spiritual leader of the Indian independence movement, remarked: “It was the rigid simplicity, the utter self-effacement of the Prophet, the scrupulous regard for his pledges, his intense devotion to his friends and followers, his intrepidity, his fearlessness, his absolute trust in God and in his own mission. These, and not the sword carried everything before them and surmounted every obstacle.”

George Bernard Shaw, the British playwright, declared: “The world is in dire need of a man with the mind of Muhammad; religious people in the middle Ages, due to their ignorance and prejudice, had pictured him in a very dark way as they used to consider him the enemy of Christianity. But after looking into the story of this man I found it to be an amazing and a miraculous one, and I came to the conclusion that he was never an enemy of Christianity, and must be called instead the saviour of humanity. In my opinion, if he was to be given control over the world today, he would solve our problems and secure peace and happiness which the world is longing for.”

Fore more information email us at dawah.jih@gmail.com